

SANDY N. WISE, RN, BSN, MBA

Ms. Wise has been in the healthcare industry for over thirty years specializing in healthcare operations and marketing and most recently supply chain management. Beginning her career as a staff nurse she spent twenty years at a large healthcare system in Texas where she held positions to include clinical care, administrative oversight, programmatic development, strategic planning, redesign of the Women and Children's units, and corporate marketing. She has spent the last twelve years specializing in supply chain management working for several national healthcare cooperatives, a GPO, and a Manager with PricewaterhouseCoopers in the Healthcare Advisory Practice specializing in consulting with healthcare providers to reduce their costs and improve processes to maximize resources and provide quality care. Currently she is Director of Clinical Resources for the Texas Purchasing Coalition

Ms. Wise has conducted media interviews to include CBS Evening News, Reader's Digest, USA Today, and Health Care Purchasing News (4 consecutive years including the cover story 2007). She has been a presenter at many healthcare provider meetings across the country and has been a presenter at AHRMM's annual meeting. She has also been a speaker for supplier sales meetings to include U.S. Surgical and Medline.

Ms. Wise resides in Dallas, Texas.